DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 16 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim should refer to other claims in the alternative only. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claim 16 has not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-4 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ruiz US Patent No. 6,302,877.

Ruiz discloses a laser ophthalmic apparatus for correcting visual defects of the eye, such as myopia, the laser apparatus comprising: a computer-control delivery system adapted to deliver a laser ablation in a region outside of an identified optical zone and separated therefrom by a minimum distance as presently claimed (see Figures 4, 4A).

As described in the applicant's written description, the present invention relies on the control program that enables the claimed apparatus to perform the recited functions. However, the instant claims fail to clearly and properly recite said control program. Hence, the computer-controlled apparatus of Ruiz anticipates the instant claims as broadly as recited.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 5-9 and 11-14 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Ruiz ('877).

Claims 5-9 and 11-14 fail to recite functional and/or structural limitations of the claimed apparatus. They are directed to an intended use and/or results expected from the treatment apparatus. Ruiz, described above, does not teach the recited dimensions of the ablated region. However, his computer-controlled apparatus is capable to provide the ablation dimensions as claimed. Therefore, at the time of the applicant's invention, one skilled in the art would have used Ruiz to provide a corneal ablation having the geometry and dimensions of the recited ablation to correct vision disorders such as myopia.

4. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ruiz in view of Youssefi et al. US Patent NO. 6,814,729.

Ruiz does not teach the use of the recited aperture transmission. However, Youssefi et al. teach an ophthalmic apparatus incorporation an aperture with a direct aperture transmission portion and a diffractive aperture transmission portion as claimed. Therefore, at the time of the applicant's invention, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify Riuz in view of Youssefi and use a beam-shaping aperture having a direct transmission and diffractive transmission in order to direct intensity profile of the treatment light on different portions of the treatment region.
